Excerpts from Senior anthology

MYSELF

There is nothing
For me
In my drab
World of selfness.

It's a place
Where no one belongs
Not even
I.

So once more
I'll turn out
The light,
And go to sleep.

THE KISS OF THE CHIMES

I kissed her lips many times

But with on kiss,

Our very last kiss,

I heard the chimes.
The chimes ringing loud and clear
Bringing their joyful sound into my ears,
A sound so joyful
That it brought to my eyes sorrow's tears--
Tears that I shall shed for many years.
The chimes ringing, singing, making me know her time was n
Lying in the grass so green, her waiting bier
Was waiting for her heart filled now with death's cold fea
The chimes ringing, bringing pain to my heart,
Making me wish that our lips would never part.
But the kiss of the chimes was not meant to be everlasting.
Then a shadow, a shadow began casting,

And the chimes faded, slowly faded away.
The joyful sound in my ears would not stay

For with the chimes her life also faded away.

Lying limply in my arms,
I knew she rested without her charms.
Then I stood opened hearted
And knew that our lips now were parted
Forever,
To meet again never.
I stood in the shadow the chimes had cast
Knowing that the kiss of the chimes was to be--
To be our last.

REHABILITATION. It has been a long time since Tom had been home. He has been in prison for five years on a pick-up for drugs. Tom headed straight for home as soon as he got out of that awful life of being pinned up. It had been dreadful all those years. Now he is finally out, he is going to change his life..... He went ahead to town but left soon after he had been ridiculed to death..... He went home and waited for his mom and dad. He started having a good time listening to records, but when his family returned, all he received from them was a snarl, a cuss word and a slap in the face. Now what was left for him to do?

STORMY NIGHTS

Hey little lamb,
What's the rush?
Lightning bolts are far away
And thunder rolls the other way.
It seems quite fierce
To one so small
Thunder, lightning, wind and all.
Don't be afraid,
'Twould be in vain.
After all,
It's just the rain.

Chris Gwaltney

NEW LIFE

How fresh the morning when the sun is bright,
When spring has come and flowers start to grow,
When sleepy brooks from mountains wake to flow,
It's then I feel the meaning of new life.
With spring begins a new world once each year,
When new life has the chance to grow and gain,

Through laughter in the sunlight--strength in rain,

To merit before winter's whisper nears.
Oh yes, my friend, the time has come to wake
From sleepy dreams in clouds to truths on earth;
To know how growing efforts kiss with mirth;
To love life's gifts from which we may partake.
For we are like the sprinter's opened eyes,
With chance to grow and see through clouds in skies.

As I sit here, I'm wondering what it would be like to be rich. Someone who is rich has it made. He can sleep late, then go swimming in his private pool, smoke two dollar cigars and have the best of everything.

I guess having the best of anything would be the best part. Just think about it. If you bought a car it would have the biggest engine, the most balanced wheels, the quietest mufflers and the smoothest drive, and if by chance someone bought one bigger than yours, you could trade your old one in on a more up-to-date one.

Only the rich can afford to be rich. But I can still work, hope, and pray that someday I'll be able to say, "I'm rich." Until then I'm just in a fool's paradise.

MY PRAYER

David Haskins

Dear God,
Make me an instrument of Thy Peace. Turn the hearts of our enemies to peace. Let all men
learn to love--as you love us. Let me find my place on earth. Help all men to find their place. Help the earth
overcome all of her problems. Give me strength to forgive and the wisdom to love.
